Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 15.—Governor Hayes, democrat, was re-elected yesterday, the child labor bill was carried overwhelmingly and two in wing, has surrendered after losing initiative measures were approved, twenty thousand men and many guns.

ACTUAL EXPERIENCES OF THE WAR

AS TOLD BY WOUNDED MEN

(Special Dispatch by the International News Service.)

London, Sept. 15.—Wounded soldiers, returning home to recuperate, are telling amazing stories of the fighting in France. One of them arrived at Waterloo Station today said:

"We lay in our trenches and waited. At the break of day, after sleeping with our rifles beside us, a shell fired from a battery of German field artillery, fell short of our position and burst with a terrific explosion some distance from our lines.

"Overhead we heard the hum of a motor, and soon we saw a German aeroplane whose occupants were doubtless signalling to the enemy's artillery how to find the right range. For the shells came nearer and nearer; the aim became better and better. The projectiles fired from these guns make a curiously weird shriek as it rushes through the air on its journey of destruction, and soon the shells were dropping right in our lines. Each one found its victim; they fell dead and mangled, and we were condemned to inactivity; for there was no enemy within reach of our weapons. So we waited and waited, and this is the hardest test of courage.

"Fully an hour passed and still we were being shelled by the enemy's artillery. Then, suddenly, the German infantry appeared and poured a succession of volleys into our lines. On they came, in close formation, their gray uniforms scarcely visible until comparatively near to us. Our machine guns came into action, and we could see the havoc they worked. The German ranks were literally mown down, but on they came, always in increasing numbers apparently regardless of the loss of life inflicted on them.

"Never and never they came,

Petrograd, Sept. 15.—The Russian government today announced that it will not take Vienna or Budapest, but will isolate the Austrian army, then make a concentrated move against Berlin which is the objective of the Russian forces.

CROWN PRINCE'S ARMY IN PRECARIOUS POSITION

London, Sept. 15.—A Daily Mail dispatch from Bordeaux says: "The position of the German Crown Prince's army is precarious. It is slowly retreating northward in an effort to join other German forces near Mezieres, St. Quentin and Peronne, but this is a fair chance that the Crown Prince will be cut off before effecting the juncture."

COMMANDER OF GERMAN RIGHT WING REPORTED SURROUNDED

London, Sept. 15.—An unconditional report says that General Von Kluck commanding the German right wing, has surrendered after losing twenty thousand men and many guns.

GERMANS DEFEATED IN EAST PRUSSIA

Petrograd, Sept. 15.—It is officially announced that Germans have been defeated in East Prussia and were driven back on Königsberg after a ten-hour battle.

GERMAN SUBMARINE SUNK.

London, Sept. 15.—A local paper states that the German submarine which sank the British cruiser, Pathfinder, was herself destroyed by thirty British fleet when she attempted another attack.

AUSTRIAN ARMY SUPPLIES

Petrograd, Sept. 15.—Sweeping across the Vistula river the Russians have destroyed a large part of the Austrian army's supplies, according to an official statement.

AUSTRIANS LOSE 10,000 MEN.

Nish, Sept. 15.—An army of nearly thousand Austrians which attempted to invade Servia near the junction of the Drina and Save rivers was disastrously defeated by Servians. The Austrians lost ten thousand men.

Then a counter charge.

The enemy had brought up reinforcements—fresh troops probably. They outnumbered us and we had to withdraw. As we moved to the rear we were decimated. Four days fighting of the most ferocious character went on. If our losses were severe, those of the Germans must have been appalling. Again and again I saw their corpses in heaps.

Another picture: Our troops were moving back to avoid being surrounded and we were ordered to hold a certain position sufficiently long to cover the retreat of our regiment.

There were 300 of us at the beginning, and we sought shelter behind a hedge, which formed a natural trench. The enemy's cavalry approached, and we fired into them, unhorsing many and inflicting severe losses. As the Uhlans rolled from their horses we cheered in glee and went on shooting. Then their artillery found the range and shelled us with wonderful accuracy. Our numbers decreased, and then their

There were 4,095 bales of cotton 1914, as compared with 3,607 bales ginned in Houston county from the crop of 1914 prior to September 1st, 1914.

RUSSIANS ARE DEFEATED IN EAST PRUSSIA

26 DEAD IN WRECK ON THE FRISCO LIMITED

Berlin, Sept. 15.—General Hindenburg reports that he has defeated the Vilna army of Russians consisting of a hundred and seventy-five thousand men, and Russians were also defeated at Lyck.

From the Vilna army the Germans captured thousands of prisoners and immense quantities of munitions. General Hindenburg commands the German forces in East Prussia.

Up to noon twenty-six bodies had been recovered from the wreck which was caused by a washout. The engine and four coaches plunged into a water-filled ditch twelve feet deep. It is believed the death list will reach forty.

In the regular city primary a few months ago L. G. Biggers was defeated by L. P. Kirkland. By just one vote, Mr. Kirkland resigned because he will move to Florida to go in the orange business.

SAYS MUNTHEGE HAS BEEN RELIEVED

Paris, Sept. 15.—An official report says that Munthege has been relieved and twelve thousand Germans captured. If true, the Germans will be compelled to retire through a narrow gap flanked by Munthege and Verdun if retreat is continued.

Last week the Berlin government claimed Munthege had been captured by Germans and forty thousand prisoners and many guns taken.

German units now extend from a point northeast of Amiens to two-and-a-half miles north of Rethel. An trial by jury Saturday to determine other forces is concentrated south-east of Verdun and another in the forests of Argonne.

The visitors requested Sheriff Bay to take tape out of a cell, so they could better see and converse with him, but the efforts of the sheriff met with resistance. The sheriff declined to use physical force to evict the man from the cell. Inge is a strong, well-developed specimen of physique.

In has divested himself of his outer shirt, while he tears into pieces with his fingers, according to information from the jail. He was taken before Judge Crawford Saturday for trial, but the hearing was postponed until Saturday of this week.

WARMING*WEARABLE

Most of our farmers know whether raising is profitable or not. Many have never tried raising but in the market. They are usually unable to raise enough meat for even tables.

Another place in this paper is advertisement from Smith and Son, real estate people. They perfected arrangements to get good hops in this country. They have selling arrangements made so there will be no trouble in a market for hops.

It is worth $100 a hundred lb. It is said, and it doesn't take much to show the farmer that one gets $10 for a hundred lb now, less than a year old, that a money in hop raising and big profits.

Mobile, Ga., a packing plant has been built. They will have a market in this section.

Farmer who is afraid to put his hops, fearing they will be stolen, should take his truck and go to the agricultural department store and let them tell him of locks and safes.

Captain H. He gave the school board and had the same done without it. Cholera took three of them that were in the room, and the ones never got sick. And some all kept together. It is an experiment, inoculation with serum.

In the time to arrange for our farmers had an average of 20 hours for market. The country full of peanuts and sugar beet, it would be easy to market, not less than 200 lb. That's $400 for the bags we don't take in curing the crop. Any locking one-horse farm buildings, that many bags, house about as much other time the farm as he has been up. Well, right right now, nothing is weekly buttering up 4 cents a pound, would pull and sweat out of the trough but a smile on the face of everyone, and consequently, on the face of every business man, and everybody in this town is this fertile spot.

We haven't a good breed of horses in communication with B. & Morgan, and see what they can do for you. This is a move along the farmers, for when we behind the whole sheep and at a time when we can't afford it.

An increased expense in advertising. Both light and heavy, and the importance of advertising, and pay attention to what they buy. New markets out of their power.

NOTICE ON WAR*FRANCE

From looking over the many papers that come to The Eagle office, it would seem that Dothan is about the only town that begins to cut expenses by cutting down the advertising. The papers here are carrying about half as much advertising as they do under normal conditions. An issue of the Troy Messenger for Monday, shows six pages and four of them filled with advertising. Every merchant and business man has something to say to the patrons; something that is encouraging, even if it isn't anything but a lower price.

One of the oldest tailoring establishments in the southern part of Alabama, with a reputation for making high-priced, and high-class clothes, puts on a $15 suit sale to keep pace with war prices. The Messenger, like the Montgomery and Birmingham papers, is carrying just as much advertising. If not a little more, than it does in normal times.

At a gathering of the publishers and printers of the Wiregrass section at Dothan last week, one editor said he had lost but one ad as a result of the war.

But that isn't the case in Dothan. Here, we have too many merchants who consider advertising a foreign growth on the business body, which is cut off when retrenchment is thought wise. But we are overcoming it in two years. We are getting a class of merchants and business men who put advertisements in the paper because they have learned that a well-written advertisement, backed up by honest goods and right prices, will help to sell those goods in any kind of times.

In this connection it may be said that in all the states of the Union, where the schools are really free, local taxation has brought that condition to pass. In many states the local tax more than doubles the appropriation from the state funds. The schools should really be free schools, and the way to make them free is to adopt local taxation.

Another theory. Who is afraid to put his hops, fearing they will be stolen, should take his truck and go to the agricultural department store and let them tell him of locks and safes.

Our school started a week ago. There were some who thought the schools shouldn't be opened. They thought times were too hard. The schools did open, and had a better attendance than the schools had a year ago, or any other year. It doesn't look like we ought to have any citizens who think that when hard times first hits us that we should cut the education of the children the first thing. That would admit that we feel that all of the money we spend, that for education, is of least importance. Can you beat it?

It takes such times as these, periodically, it would seem, to try out our metal and develop the best that is in us.

ONE "MAN" MICHIGAN.

Florence Times.

Two south Alabama newspapers, the Geneva Reaper and the Andalusia Standard, are jointly complaining of the tax that has to be paid by the children of these towns to enter the "free" schools; and the Reaper states that the charges to enter the schools range from $1 to $3 per month. In Andalusia it is about the same way.

In Florence the charge is very much less, being for the lower grades only $2 and $3 for the entire term of nine months; while for the two highest grades it is only $5 and $6 respectively, with concessions where there are several children from the same family. This is higher than it should be, but it is made necessary owing to the lack of funds.

The whole trouble arises from the constitution standing in the way of local taxation. The people would be willing to tax themselves to educate their children, but our wise (?) new masters put it out of their power

ANOTHER THEORY EXPLAINED.

"How to prevent war," theories, expounded and advocated by politicians, as are practically many other theories, very beautiful but very ineffective.

Captain Hobson, member of Congress, and others of an "ever-growing" navy school, have based their contention that American battleships should be constantly increased in number on the theory that a powerful navy is the most potent argument against international conflict.

In justice to Captain Hobson and his "allies" it should be stated that several months ago, there seemed to be reason in their schemes for peace. Now, however, since the nations possessing the largest navies in the world are flying at the throats of each other in the most terrible conflict of the ages, it is evident that the Hobson theory was as many other theories, beautiful but impotent.

or theories, beautiful but impotent.

There is still and will ever be division among Americans as to whether or not our navy should be made as powerful as the navies of other countries of the world. It is very reasonable to presume, however that the advocates of a "larger navy," will never again offer an argument in support of their cause the threadbare contention that battleships in great number work for peace. Let us rather excuse our action—in the event that we do continue to enlarge our navy—by the simple declaration that in times of peace it is frequently the part of wisdom to prepare for surprises.

WOUNDED GERMAN MET HIS DOOM FIFTEEN MINUTES AFTER PICTURE WAS SNAPPED

With this picture, just received from Belgium, there goes a dramatic story. The photograph is of a wounded German Uhljan being removed from a taxicab at Ostend to be taken aboard the hospital ship anchored there. A few seconds after this picture was taken he was recognized by a bystander as a former employee of the railroad station at Orléans, who, although a German, had always professed to hate the land of his birth. He was taken before a court martial and when a Red Cross emblem to be worn about the sleeve was found on his person he was searchingly cross-examined. He carried a loaded revolver of which several chambers had been exploded and could not satisfactorily account for the Red Cross emblem in his possession. He was ordered executed immediately. The execution took place fifteen minutes after his removal from the taxicab.

Mrs. T. S. Barnes, 601 S. Apple tree St., Dothan, says: "I had nervous spells and my head and back ached. I didn't sleep well nights and mornings was all tired out. My kidneys were weak. I finally heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. The first box made me better and I took half a box more. They made my kidneys strong and I was soon better in every way. I then gave a statement recommending them and I am still glad to tell the people that I believe they are a good kidney remedy."

THEIR MY FRIENDS

By Mary Carolyn Davis in Youth Companion
I tried to count my friends one day
Since that day I have walked in awe.

I stopped my counting in dismay,
For stretching far, in long array,
Still friends and friends I saw,
And then I said, all chokingly,
And faint with weight of happiness
"Dear God, I pray that I may be
The man they think me—nothing less."

Oh, let me be until life ends,
The man they think me, these my friends."

TEAM

If every wish were granted,
If every hope came true,
If every seed we planted
A lovely blossom grew;
If every day were sunny,
And everyone were wise,
There'd be no sweet in honey,
There'd be no joys to prize.

If we knew that tomorrow
Would be just like today,
With not one touch of sorrow,
No care to spoil our play,
No doubt and no mingling,
No heartaches and no fears
These vain were all our living.
We'd crave the joy of learn,
We'd sigh for sacred sorrow
We'd long to feel the rain,
And we should yearn to borrow.

Cine Brown, Miss Alice Watford, and Mrs. Eric Gellerstedt.

At Baltimore, Maryland, beginning September 6 and lasting to September 14, there was celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the writing of the Star Spangled Banner, by Francis Scott Key, and was known as the National Star Spangled Banner Centennial.

It was at dawn on the morning of September 13th, 1814, that Francis Scott Key saw through the mist the stars and stripes flying from Fort McHenry, in the Patapsco river after the sea and land battle with the British. This was his inspiration.

He was on board one of the British war vessels where he had gone to intercede in behalf of an American physician and was held there during the night at North Point by the British where they were repelled and the naval bombardment of Fort McHenry by sixty vessels of the English fleet.

Seeing the stars and stripes floating in the breeze and the British fleet about to retire after the unsuccessful attack, with paper and pen in hand he began composing the lines which are now looked upon as the American National Anthem.

As the men of war fell back Key and his companions were permitted to go ashore, and in a small boat he continued writing the words that flashed through his mind. That night he completed the poem.

Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the games by Mrs. Ford and Miss Norton.

The guests were Miss Annie Laurie Norton of Midway, Mrs. Oscar Stallings, Mrs. J. S. Sherman, Miss Ray Jones, Mrs. Quinn Dix, Mrs. T. H. McIntyre, Mrs. R. H. Walker, Mrs. Walter Watford, Mrs. Morris Ford, Mrs. Charles Golson, Miss Ida

Smith & Morgan Will Bring Stock Hogs to DOTHAN

The packing house in southwest Georgia will commence operation in October. They have appointed agents here in Dothan to pay cash prices for hogs and other live stock. This gives us a cash market all through the year, and is especially important as regards next year. Hogs that can be turned into cash during the summer of 1915 will come in mighty convenient. At present the price of hogs is over $10. per 100 pounds live weight. If they are of good stock and raised right they will weigh around 250 pounds on foot at from eight to ten months of age. On present market this will be around $25.00 per head. 50 such hogs would bring $1250.00—100 would bring around $2500.00, or the equivalent of 75 bales of cotton at present prices.

However to do this we must have some good stock hogs to cross with the native hogs. We are not in the hog business, but realizing the tremendous importance of this matter, & that there is not a day to be lost if we get ready for next year, we have gotten in touch with two stock farms who will fill our orders for Duroc and Berkshire hogs, boars, sows and pigs. It is our intention to assist the farmers by bringing these hogs here so that they can secure them at a low price in small lots if they desire. Every man who expects to farm in Houston county next year should have one or more such hogs.

In order that we may include you in our order for these hogs, we request that every one interested see us immediately at our office in First National Bank Building, Dothan, Alabama.
